A JUNIOR
REPUBLICMiniature Government
in Hilo Boarding School.

The erection of the new Hilo Boarding School building has attracted to that splendid institution the attention of the public. Few persons realize that Principal F. S. Lyman and his corps of capable teachers are carrying on within the limits of the Hilo Boarding School a miniature republic, in which the students carry on a system of government calculated to educate them in the correct principles of industry and good citizenship.

There are over sixty boys attending the school, representing seven nationalities, from the island of Hawaii and other islands. The Hawaiians predominate, but all classes live and work together as in one great family. Military discipline is the rule of conduct, and quarrels and school fights are unknown. The school has forty acres of land, most of which is under cultivation by the students. Coffee, pineapples, taro, and a small field of cane are scientifically raised, as well as a vegetable garden which supplies the school. In connection with the school the U. S. Experimental Station have planted a field of cacao, or "koko," and are experimenting in growing varieties of bananas.

All the work of the school is performed by the students. It is through their efforts that the farm produces the taro, fruit and vegetables for their table. The carpenter and blacksmith classes make all the necessary repairs upon the buildings, furniture and farm implements. The boys learn plumbing, stone crushing and masonry through their efforts to advance the actual needs of the institution. Besides this, there is the daily attention the school rooms, shops and dormitories receive at the hands of the cleaners.

The dining department carries with it a good deal of interest. The boys are their own cooks and stewards and the work is so divided that in one year the majority of the school has served its apprenticeship in this line under the supervision of a competent matron.

Every department is carried on with clockwork regularity and each boy can be found at his post, either in the school, farm or shops. A stranger going upon the grounds is mystified to know where all the boys can be. There is no evidence of the sixty boys who make the school their home.

The school has a company of well-kept soldiers, and each soldier of this democracy is a citizen with a citizen's rights. Judges are elected from their numbers, who try all cases brought before them. This court sits once a week and is under the general supervision of the principal. If offenders are found guilty suitable punishment is meted out. By the adoption of this judicial system among the boys, the barrier between pupil and teacher is bridged. A high valuation is placed on honor, and any boy who receives no discredit marks is given special privileges which he himself has earned.

The Boarding School differs in many ways from the government schools, as it has for its aim more than the regular classroom curriculum. The boys learn to be practical farmers, carpenters, printers, wood turners, wood polishers and blacksmiths. Five days per week are devoted to the classroom and manual training work and study hours are also provided.

The great effort of the school is to inculcate the spirit of independence. A nominal charge of $35 per year is made to cover necessary supplies not raised on the school farm. All is not work for the students in the school, for besides having every Monday a regular rest day, numerous picnics are held throughout the year. During the Easter vacation the boys go on a camping expedition on the sea shore or mountain side.

The old school building has outlived its usefulness and proper accommodations cannot be given the students. The building when completed will be the largest, if not the finest, school on the island of Hawaii. Enough money from popular subscriptions by citizens of Hilo, Honolulu and Kauai has been raised to erect the main structure and one wing. Owing to the lack of funds, the construction of the second wing has been delayed. There is a balance of about $6,000 needed for this purpose.

Besides the amount needed to complete the building, a large endowment is needed for the maintenance of the school. It is proposed to apply all money subscribed over and above the amount necessary for the completion of the building to the endowment fund. The public must not think it is being asked to subscribe to a private institution. While established primarily for Hawaiian boys, all nationalities are received within its doors. The purpose of the school is purely humanitarian, and it is an institution where the youth of the islands can be trained to a higher manhood and to a nobler citizenship.—Hilo Tribune.

VICTORY CROWNING REVIVAL

This afternoon the last afternoon meeting of the week will be held in Central Union church. Yesterday's three o'clock service was well attended and proved very helpful. At the close Dr. Ostrom met the officers and teachers of the city Sunday schools and gave them an interesting and instructive talk.

The after meeting last night was the crowding feature of the day. The chapel of Central Union was filled and when the appeal for decisions was made no less than fifteen came to the front. One woman from another island spoke of her slipping out from the church and said that the services had helped her get back on her feet. Several soldiers from the transport were among those who came up and were most heartily welcomed.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL PARADE.

On next Monday there will be an inter-denominational parade of all the different Sunday schools of the city. All Sunday schools walk of Nuuanu Avenue will meet at Central Union church and all on the ewa side will meet at Palama at 3 p. m. The two divisions will then march along Beretania avenue until they meet. They will then march to Bishop street where they will be briefly addressed by Dr. Ostrom. Messrs. Butler and Hillis will be there to lead the singing. It is expected that the Hawaiian band will be in attendance. All Sunday schools of the city are invited to participate.

Abraham Lincoln

was one of the shrewdest men who ever lived. He saw through men straight into their very hearts, and he said this:

"You can fool some of the people all the time, and all of the people some of the time; but you can't fool all the people all the time."

Has anybody ever summed up more forcibly a striking characteristic of the American people—of you and your friends?

Lincoln made that statement forty years ago, and today one phrase alone of it is so full of truth that you should keep it always before you. Today you cannot fool all of the people even some of the time.

Now, you know what is happening in the wool market. Raw wool is 40 per cent higher than ever before, and clothes will consequently cost more. It is a ticklish situation for everybody who is not willing to face it squarely. Already there is painfully visible some wild scurrying for cover before the storm breaks.

"Mercerized" goods are entering the field in troops. You know what they are worth in durability and character. There are other fabrics which are not even mercerized—practically straight Alabama cotton. In some cases consciences are being salved with short weight woollens substituted for regular weights. Others are made up from raw material in which cotton and wool have been carded or mixed together before being spun. Most of these impositions are so cleverly manipulated that even experts are hard put to it to say by scrutiny which is the honest piece and which the "queer." The only absolute test is the Caustic Potash Bath—the Stein-Bloch Wool Test described in this space last week.

Our Spring stock of Stein-Bloch clothes is now here. Any suit will stand the wool test as well as the test for fit and style.
